

Sorghum

Sorghum bicolor

CLEARVIEW
Farm

DEVELOPED BY THE ATKINS GROUP

About Sorghum

- Sorghum, also known as Milo, is a cereal grain plant with seeds that have high carbohydrate content.
- Sorghum is a 2-4 feet tall grass with a white, yellow, red, or bronze head.
- Typically planted in May or June, sorghum is harvested in the fall.
- The average yield for sorghum in the U.S. is 76 bushels per acre (1 bushel= 56 pounds).

Uses

- Animal Feeds: Livestock Feed, Pet Food
- Ethanol Production
- Other Products: Glue, Lubricants, Cosmetics

Fast Facts

- Sorghum is a gluten free grain.
- 1/3 of grain sorghum is used for livestock feed and 1/3 is exported.
- Kansas is the #1 producer of grain sorghum in the U.S.

Sorghum at Clearview Farm

...more information coming soon!

www.clearview-farm.com

